

Institute-Industry Society Conclave begins at IIT-BHU

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Varanasi: The three-day Institute-Industry Society Conclave 2018 organised at IIT-BHU commenced on Friday.

Addressing the inaugural function, IIT-BHU director Prof Pramod Kumar Jain emphasized the detailed framework as well as the role of NGOs working in the field of society, agriculture and small and medium industries.

Giving importance to the mutual communication among all the categories of society, he said that any technical advancement and its use can never be worth useful without mutual connection of the society. The institute will play its social role on the basis of ideas and experiences coming out from

IIT-BHU director said that technical advancement is not worth without mutual connection of the society this conclave, he said.

Speaking on the occasion, district development manager, NABARD, Sushil Tiwari focused on the role of IIT-BHU to promote skills of farmers and artisans as well.

The inaugural function was followed by technical sessions meant for handicrafts, cottage industry and agricultural products. About 100 skilled professionals joined the sessions. Solar dryer and cooker made by former student of IIT-BHU Gaurav Kedia were also inaugurated on the occasion.

Times of India- 01-09-2018